Dear DSA Member:

Recently, the Downtown Seattle Association ("DSA") established a strategic relationship with OfficeSpace.com and specifically their new Office Buildings publication. The DSA will be provided with a special edition that will consist of 12-pages of editorial provided by the DSA plus approximately 36 pages of photo listings from the Office Buildings publication (including only those listings from the DSA's core coverage area).

This special publication will provide potential prospects and relocation counselors a great overview of the region. They will be great hands out at trade shows, member functions and selected mailings as we respond to those companies that make inquiries about locating their businesses in Seattle. We expect to distribute approximately 2,000 copies over the next 12 months. Without a doubt, the best time to present your building and/or company is at the very beginning of a relocation search.

This publication can be an important marketing tool for your properties and/or organization, and we encourage you to take advantage of this valuable resource by purchasing an ad, a page or a listing. Not only will it market your properties and/or organization, it potentially brings more businesses to Downtown Seattle.

We encourage you to participate in these publications so that business prospects considering a Seattle location can see the wide variety of buildings available.

Please contact Mr. John Suryan, President, OfficeSpace.com for information on upgraded listings and advertising opportunities at (206) 204-0095 or john@officespace.com.

Very Truly Yours,

David Dillman
Vice President, Operations & Services
