Dear enterpriseSeattle Investor,

I am excited to share with you a new opportunity and benefit to enterpriseSeattle investors. You may have seen it mentioned in our most recent edition of the Dividend that was emailed just a few weeks ago, but I wanted to take the time to provide you with more detail.

Recently, the organization established a strategic relationship with one of our longstanding investors, OfficeSpace.com. They are creating a new annual publication that will provide an overview of our office market showcasing office buildings throughout the region and will be called Office Buildings Magazine (Seattle).

The main edition of the Office Buildings (Seattle) publication will be distributed to: 6,500 local tenants; 1,300 local commercial realtors; 1,450 owners, property managers & financial institutions; and 244 Fortune 500 corporate real estate directors.

This new economic development tool will provide potential prospects and relocation counselors a great overview of the region. They will be an outstanding handout at trade shows, investor functions and selected mailings as we respond to those companies that make inquiries about locating or expanding their businesses in the region.

We encourage you to participate in this publication so that business prospects considering a Pacific Northwest location can see the wide variety of buildings available. Please contact Mr. John Suryan, President, OfficeSpace.com for information on upgraded listings and advertising opportunities for enterpriseSeattle investors at (206) 204-0095 or john@officespace.com.

Very Truly Yours,

Jeff Marcell
Executive Vice President and COO
